Tower Wins Texas Election

First GOP Senator In State's History

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The victory of John G. Tower, the first Republican senator to be elected by Texas voters, today left gleeful GOP workers thankful they rang so many doorbells and Democrats wondering what went wrong.

Tower, 35, a former college professor, won Saturday's special U.S. Senate race by 8,000 votes over William A. Blakley, a Democrat who holds the Senate seat on an interim appointment.

He had 444,815 votes or 50.45 per cent of the 881,630 votes counted to Blakley's 436,815. Approximately 7,600 votes—not enough to change the outcome—were yet to be reported.

When Lyndon B. Johnson, who had campaigned successfully both for the vice presidency and for reelection as senator in November, resigned his Senate seat early this year, Tower was one of the first to announce for the special April 4 election.

A political unknown when he quit as professor at Midwestern University last year to run on the Republican ticket against the Senate majority leader, Tower piled up 926,653 votes against Johnson's 1,306,625. It was the largest vote ever given a Texas Republican in a state race.

Tower was the only Republican in the April 4 election. The state Republican organization threw its full force into the campaign.

More than 70 Democrats—including Blakley and four others with proven support—failed in the same election.

Political professionals say that the Democrats made their first mistake when they failed to recognize Tower's strength and failed to narrow the field of candidates before the April 4 election.

Albert Bel Fay of Houston, Republican national committeeman, said, "We did a lot of doorbell ringing and that helped. I even rang some myself."

"We've just been working. It takes hard work," said Peter O'Donnell, Dallas County Republican chairman.

500 Seek Jobs At E. Palestine Plant

EAST PALESTINE — Approximately 500 persons made application for work at the W. S. George Pottery Plant No. 1 today. The plant was recently leased by Royal China Inc. of Sebring and expects to employ 250 persons.

F. C. Henderson is conducting the interviews which will continue through 4 p.m. today. Royal officials stated that preference will be given to former George Co. employees and those 125 persons who volunteered to clean-up the plant last week.

Production is expected to begin in the clay shop early in June.

Prepares For Crucial Confabs

President Studies On 44th Birthday

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy turned 44 today in the seclusion of his family reservation on the chilly south shore of Cape Cod. He put in more homework on his crucial meetings with French President Charles de Gaulle and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The youngest president ever elected to the office boned up on this week's European conferences while anticipating a giant birthday celebration in Boston tonight with personal and political friends.

But the mood of the occasion was deadly serious.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger reported the chief executive remained on the grounds of the Kennedy compound of homes Sunday except for a drive to Mass in nearby Hyannis.

While a spanking westerly churned up whitecaps on Nantucket Sound, Kennedy stayed in the beachfront home of his father poring over documents relating to his sessions with De Gaulle in Paris and Khrushchev in Vienna.

The President flies to Paris Tuesday night after Mrs. Kennedy joins him in New York.

Birthday wishes loaded the wires in this summer resort. Kennedy was chipper and smiling as he acknowledged shouts of "happy birthday" on leaving St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church. Hundreds of worshippers filled the white frame church and hundreds more flocked to the streets outside.

His only answer was a chuckle when asked if—after four months in the world's hardest job—he felt older than 44.

Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician, had a very proper answer to the same inquiry. "I believe he feels as if he is 44," she said.

Kennedy was expected to speak off the cuff—but to say something of this country's position going into the conference with Khrushchev—in his Boston speech. Democrats hope to raise $500,000 from the $100-a-plate banquet in Boston's Commonwealth Armory.

2nd Suspect Admits Part In Slayings

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)—Joseph Maxey, who had steadfastly denied participating in the slayings of two prominent women broke down Sunday and confessed—corroborating the story given earlier by his partner in the brutal crime.

Maxey, 23, and Loretta Parks, 22, both Negro car-washers who have been charged with abduction, rape and murder, were to have a preliminary hearing today in Plainfield Municipal Court.

In his confession, Maxey admitted he had killed Mrs. Elliott C. Ewell, 49, of Plainfield, by running over her with her own Cadillac when she attempted to escape.

Parks admitted Friday night that he had strangled Mrs. Robert Tyson, 50, also of Plainfield, after raping her. He had implicated Maxey but Maxey repeatedly denied the accusations despite the mounds of evidence gathered by detectives.

Parks and Maxey underwent psychiatric examinations Sunday for several hours.

A memorial service was conducted for the two victims at St. Paul's Episcopal church in Westfield. About 300 persons attended the service, including the husbands and families of the slain women.

The nation's traffic deaths, showing a heavy toll Sunday averaged more than four per hour at the half way mark of the extended Memorial Day weekend today.

National Safety Council officials termed the rate alarming and said if it continued through Tuesday's holiday period, the toll could top the record of 413 highway deaths reported in a four-day Memorial Day weekend in 1957.

The council did not make an estimate of traffic deaths for the four-day period which started at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Tuesday (local time). However, it estimated that 100 persons might be killed on Memorial Day alone, 30 more than the average on a non-holiday Tuesday.

The council said traffic deaths would average 385 over a non-holiday period covering 102 hours from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Tuesday.

Generally pleasant weather prevailed in most parts of the nation Sunday and millions of motorists headed for outings and recreation spots. There were 120 highway fatalities, including multiple deaths in several auto crashes.

An Associated Press survey for a non-holiday period of 102 hours, from 6 p.m. Friday, May 12 to midnight Tuesday, May 16, showed 341 traffic deaths. In other violent deaths, 14 persons were killed in boating accidents, 78 others drowned, not involved with boating, and 106 lost their lives in miscellaneous accidents. The over-all total was 539.

17 New 'Riders' On Trial Today

Report Fifth Wave Headed For Jackson

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Seventeen more segregation-defying "Freedom Riders" go on trial in city court today amid reports a fifth group would leave soon for Jackson in an attempt to crack the Deep South's "Jim Crow" barriers.

In Forest Park, Pa., the Freedom Riders' chief co-ordinator, Marvin Rich of New York, said a bus trip would be made to Jackson from New Orleans today or Tuesday.

Here in Mississippi's capital city, 22 Freedom Riders convicted on breach of peace charges last Friday, were moved to the county farm where they will work their fines off at $3 a day. Five others posted bond earlier and were released.

The 17 newly arrested freedom riders — 13 Negroes and four whites—go on trial on the same charges as the other 27.

Four separate groups of bus riders attempting to desegregate bus terminals through the South have arrived in Jackson since last Wednesday.

Two bus loads from Montgomery, Ala., traveling about four hours apart from that riot-torn city, were arrested after entering white waiting rooms and failing to obey police orders to leave.

Sunday two more groups arrived—one from Montgomery and the other from Memphis. Both originally left Nashville late Saturday.

The Memphis-to-New Orleans bus group—seven Negroes and two whites—were arrested during the morning. Eight more—six Negroes and two whites—were arrested upon arrival in the afternoon. One of the latter contingent did not participate in the

None Injured In Mishaps On District Roads

No one was injured in five mishaps that occurred on area highways this weekend, involving two Salem drivers, the State Patrol reported.

Lucille Paddon, 29, of 128 Highland Ave. struck the right rear of an unidentified vehicle when she attempted to pass on Rt. 224, a half-mile east of Canfield at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The Patrol said that the Salem driver was unaware of any damage and stopped later at the Post to report the accident.

In an accident that occurred at 8:25 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Rt. 45 and 18 in North Jackson, considerable damage was done to a foreign-made car

Mob Violence Breaks Out In African Strike

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Violence broke out in South Africa today as nonwhites started a three-day political strike. African mobs blocked roads and stoned worker buses.

In Port Elizabeth an African bus driver was shot and wounded trying to steer his bus through a stone throwing gang.

Several other buses also were stoned in segregated Negro townships outside Port Elizabeth and Durban, at road blocks made of gasoline drums, poles and rocks.

Frightened drivers wanted to quit but police promised them protection, and escorted the buses through.

The government - controlled South African radio quoted police and military officials as saying, "The natives are going to work as usual. There is no support for the strike call in Johannesburg."

But there was evidence that a high percentage of the Africans employed in this city were staying away from their jobs. Hardly any were to be seen in streets that normally are crowded with them during the morning rush hour. The railroad station looked deserted when it should have been jammed. The South African Press Association estimated that only a fifth the usual number of black workers were coming in by train.

Attacks Could Hurt Vienna Talks

Dems Ask Halt Of Political Blasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders called today for a cooling-off period in Republican political attacks until President Kennedy has talked with Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana urged a truce to suspend at least temporarily the kind of foreign policy blasts at the President with which the GOP kept the political battle reverberating over the weekend.

"This is not the time, with the Khrushchev talks approaching, for anyone to become political or partisan in the foreign policy field," Mansfield said. "Rather it is the time for all Americans to come to the aid and support of their president."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, the assistant Democratic leader, said in a separate interview he recognizes the Republicans' right to criticize foreign policy decisions. But he said he thinks the country would benefit by a little more unity behind the President as he approaches the Vienna meeting.

Republicans gave no sign, however, of any let-up in wide-ranging criticism of Kennedy's foreign and domestic policies in which they engaged over the weekend.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Senate Republican leader, told a Republican meeting Sunday in Chicago that he believes Kennedy could blunder the nation into war with the Soviet Union.

Republican National Chairman Thruston B. Morton told an Albuquerque, N. M., audience that the prestige of the United States had "plummeted to an all-time low."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon told a news conference in Oklahoma City he thought it was morally wrong and unwise to trade 500 tractors for 1,200 Cuban invasion prisoners.

Describes La Cabana Terror

Writer Relates Recent Cuban Imprisonment

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP correspondent Robert Berrellez during two years in Cuba became a sort of authority on Fidel Castro's most famous prison, La Cabana. He wound up there as a prisoner, but finally was released to return to the United States. Here is his description of this prison whose name strikes terror in many Cuban hearts.

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

NEW YORK (AP)—A popular Spanish dish is paella—a concoction of rice, chicken, seafood, peppers and other things that defies the martini in the number of ways it can be made.

In Havana's La Cabana Prison, the inmates—I among them—jokingly referred to the diet of rice and black beans as paella a La Cabana. This, however, was a sort of long-playing paella that went on for every one of the miserable 25 days of my detention.

Once in a while, a shred of beef or ham somehow would find its way into the mixture.

The food was the most palatable of the conditions at the ancient fortress prison. Filth, dampness, cold and forbiddingly grim surroundings were the lot of the 1,800 in Cabana with me.

I know La Cabana well. My first assignment after reaching Havana in mid-January 1959 was to go to the prison to interview Maj. Jesus Sosa Blanco, accused by Fidel Castro of more than 100 murders. He was executed the same month.

I went there many times thereafter to interview other so-called war criminals and had no difficulties coming and going. There was no suggestion then that my career as a correspondent in Havana was to end with detention in the same prison.

The original fortress is surrounded by deep, dry, grassy

SCHOLASTIC ACHIEVEMENT — At a White House ceremony, President Kennedy presented awards of $500 each for "outstanding scholastic achievement" to three blind students graduating from their universities this June. Left to right: Daniel R. Webber of Saginaw, Mich., LL.D., Law School of Notre Dame; the President; Cheryl Lynn Martin of Mansfield, Ohio, B.A. from Wittenberg University; her mother, Mrs. James R. moats. Traffic feeds over narrow bridges, some covered.

The prison itself is a tiny triangular space in one corner of the original fort. Deep vaults apparently used by the Spanish military to store food and wine were converted into prison cells much later.

The vaults run under nearly six feet of porous concrete. I was told this was intended to let rain water seep through the walls slowly. The ever present breeze from the ocean about a mile away combines with the damp walls to create a primitive air conditioning. The prison is cool in the steamy tropical daytime heat, and intensely cold at night.

Vaulted cells are built into an L-shaped wall that forms two sides of the triangle. One unnumbered cell is a well equipped barber shop. Next to cell No. 22 is the first steel-barred gate. Just beyond another cell is the prison administrative office. Next to it, and nearest the heavily guarded main gate, is death row.

From the back end of the cells, and through a double set of bars, we could peer into the grassy moats.

One part of the moats, not visible from the cells, is used for executions. There was no firing squad activity during my stay there. I was told, however, the shots and screams could be heard clearly in the cells.

France Begins Trial Of Two Ex-Generals

PARIS (AP)—Two French generals, stripped of rank and honors go on trial for their lives today accused of treason for leading last month's unsuccessful military revolt in Algeria.

Maurice Challe, 55, ex-flier who commanded all French forces in Algeria, and Andre Zeller, 63, once the French army chief of staff, face their military and civilian judges in the heavily guarded Palace of Justice just 38 days after they launched the Algiers paratroop revolt in hope of keeping the territory French.

The four-day uprising failed when France rallied behind President Charles de Gaulle and the bulk of French troops in Algeria refused to support the generals.

Challe and Zeller gave themselves up. Their two companions in the brief military junta—Gen. Raoul Salan and Gen. Edmond Jouhaud—are still at large.

Today's trial is in the same dark-paneled, tapestried courtroom where Marshal Philippe Petain, chief of the Vichy government under the Nazis, was found guilty of treason and condemned to death for his World War II role. De Gaulle spared his life and Petain died in exile on an island.

Both former generals were thought likely to deny reports that they were in touch with other plotters in France to overturn the De Gaulle regime or with the agents of foreign powers.

A dozen collaborators of the two including several generals and colonels, are jailed and awaiting later trial.

STUTTGART, Germany (AP)—Newly married Princess Birgitta of Sweden arrived by plane from Stockholm Sunday night to prepare for her church wedding.

She was met at the airport by her husband, Prince Johann Georg of Hohenzollern who will lead her to the altar in Sigmaringen's Roman Catholic Church Tuesday. The couple was married in a civil ceremony in Stockholm last Friday.

JFK Counterattack Seen On Tractor Deal Critics

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—The administration is said to believe the situation is just right to undo any damage in relations with other Latin American nations caused by the invasion failure.

Kennedy, here for a weekend of rest and study, was understood to have considered that Western Hemisphere problem while leveling primary attention on his European conferences later this week.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Republican leaders in Congress have denounced the proposition of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro to exchange 1,200 prisoners of the invasion attempt for 500 tractors and bulldozers.

They called it blackmail and criticized Kennedy for helping to organize a committee of U.S. citizens to raise the necessary millions and arrange details of the transfer.

There have been signs that Castro may waver on the offer, and one administration objective is to put the Cuban dictator on the spot.

Kennedy has appealed for contributions to pay for the tractors, which would cost an estimated $15 million. The White House also has disclosed that behind the scenes he got three committee members together. But Kennedy also has declared the government itself can play no part in the transaction or fund raising.

That job was left to the committee, consisting of Eleanor Roosevelt; Walter Reuther, head of the United Auto Workers, and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and president of Johns Hopkins University.

Castro apparently thought up the tractor-for-prisoner exchange in hopes of building his own prestige while hurting the United States in the eyes of Latin America.

Reaction from that part of the hemisphere, however, has been surprisingly favorable to the United States. Kennedy reportedly feels it's time to make the most of that reaction.

Housing Needs Of Aged Differ From Young People's

A concern of many individuals and communities is planning housing for the aged. Each year some 400,000 Americans reach the age of 65.

"Their requirements are vastly different from younger, active people," points out interior designer Eleanor Pepper. "When housing is considered for them, it must be thought of in its entirety, an over-all problem."

Miss Pepper has spent 10 years researching the project. She took an active part in the recent symposium of the Institute on Producing Housing for older people sponsored by the National Council on the Aging. The meetings in New York were attended by builders, sociologists, economists, bankers.

Ease of maintenance and economy must be achieved without sacrificing cheerfulness, she says, "and today there are many new products and materials that can answer that need." She explains:

"COLOR IS A VITAL consideration because older people do not get out often and need vistas within rooms. We must think in two dimensions as well as three. Their quarters are smaller usually, and should have a spatial variety—a low ceiling entrance hall that enters into a room with a higher ceiling. Or achieve spatial effects with color — darker on the ceiling of an entrance hall lighter on the ceiling of the adjoining room.

"Softer colors rather than intense colors are kinder to older people whose complexions are sallow, hair gray or faded. Rosier colors in a bedroom make them look and feel warmer. Warm peach tones rather than blue tones will stimulate appetites in the dining area."

Background colors in the living area should be soft whether on wall, ceiling or floor. A more vivid color could be used on one small wall to point up a favorite piece of furniture or art object.

"FURNITURE MUST be thought of in terms of comfort and easy maintenance. Can an older person rise easily from the sofa or chair? Is the coffee table too low, requiring deep bends? It is easier to keep wood chair arms clean than the upholstered type. Plastic laminated furniture or oil-finished woods are easy-care items.

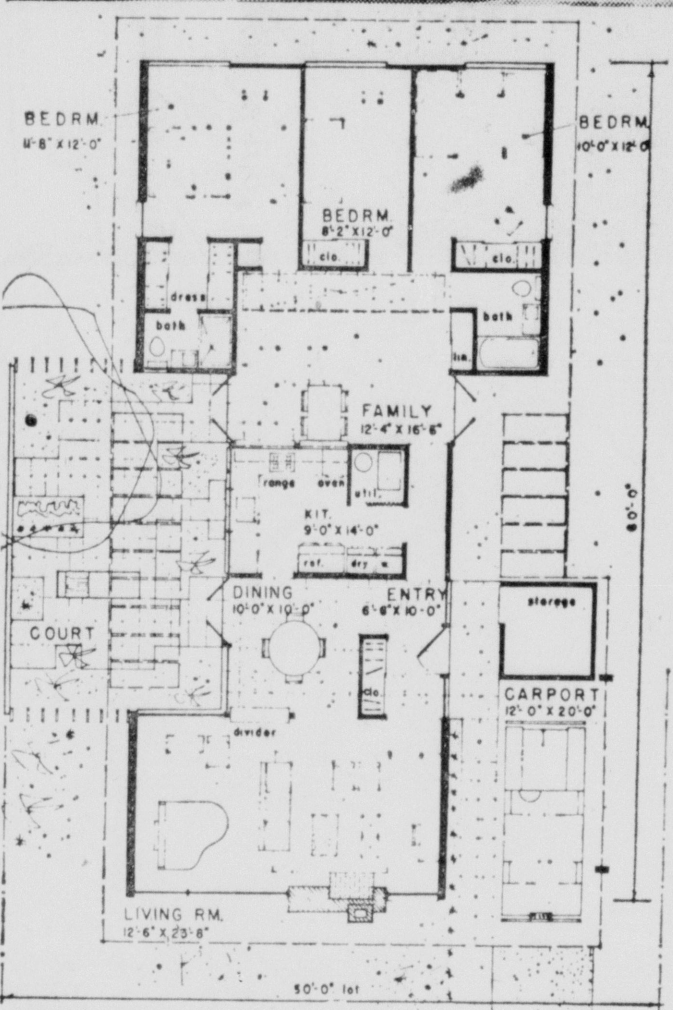

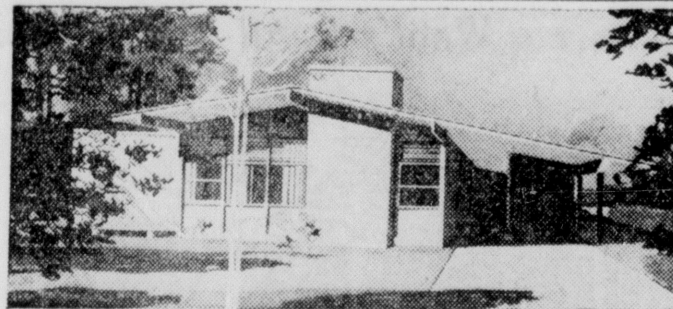

"Economy upkeep of furnishings must be considered. Older people cannot usually afford help, and they cannot do heavy work, so the home must reflect the idea. New wood finished products are warm and offer unlimited possibilities in the home. A new plywood (perma-guard) has a clear plastic coating permanently fused over the wood, permitting the natural wood grain to shine through. Available in shiny or mat finish it is ideal for walls, panels, doors as it will not show fingerprints. It requires no upkeep. A new wallboard (masonite) is embossed. A wallboard (gypsum) has a vinyl fabric fused through it for ease of construction and appearance. An asbestos cement board with a fused ceramic surface (Glaswell) available in slabs four feet by eight feet is in soft finishes that may be used around the wall of a bathtub. It is ideal in perforated slabs for radiator fronts. It is useful in structural panels and door cabinets.

"FLOORS SHOULD REFLECT the ease of maintenance, avoiding materials that gather dust in cracks. Linoleum would be ideal if it could be improved. Carpet is best to cushion the shock of bumps and falls of older people. If rubber cushioned (fused to carpet backing) it prevents seepage from spilled liquids. If a separate pad is required it should be of hair with a rubber sheet, top and bottom.

"Lighting must offer a high level of illumination. Base outlets should be higher so deep bending is not required. Three-way switches are necessary to light the path ahead, and so the light can be extinguished without going back. One switch in the bedroom should light the entire house when necessary.

"LIGHT SOURCES should avoid glare, but not be so dull or monotonous or so restless that they spoil continuity. Wrong light effects colors or the room, fabric, wood, paintings. The light from outdoors must be considered. It will throw different light from a red brick wall than from a landscape. Light helps create the atmosphere of living. If the room is dull, a light rug should be used on the floor. Heavy curtains may be required to shut out glare. These things must be considered from the standpoint of the room exposure.

"Safety and convenience must be uppermost in furnishing the home, particularly in the kitchen. Stove controls should be at the front so there is less chance of being scalded or burned by reaching over a burner."

Ceramic Tile For Barbecues Is Frostproof

So you want to build a barbecue? It can be done, and it can be fun. The secret lies in careful planning.

First you should decide on the size and elaborateness of the barbecue; that will determine the size of the foundation. Many like benches, tables and cabinets as part of the barbecue unit. The number will decide the ground space needed.

Among the materials you will need are concrete, concrete block fire - brick, ceramic tile, cement, lime and sand.

The foundation itself should be six inches of concrete, and a cinder base under it should go below the frost line.

Of course, the core of the barbecue unit is the fireplace and grill. Construction of the barbecue pit is done most economically with concrete blocks which are available everywhere and easy to install. Next step is the finishing. The lining of the grill itself should be of fire-brick made of fire clay which will withstand high temperature.

The concrete blocks are set in a mortar made of cement, lime and sand. In laying out the construction of the barbecue be sure to consider working heights. The top surfaces should be no more than 36 inches from the ground or terrace level and some prefer a lower height, around 30 inches. For comparison purposes, 36 inches is the average height of kitchen tops and 30 inches is the height of dining or breakfast room tables.

The size of the fireplace and grill should be determined according to the type of entertaining you plan. For large parties, the grill should take a full supply of barbecued meats, and should be adjustable so that it can be raised or lowered on a series of notches to vary the distance between the fire and the cooking surface. A simple way of getting these adjustments is to have steel dowels inserted into the firebrick lining. About five sets, set two or three inches apart will give plenty of settings for different heights.

For the rest of the surfaces a popular material is ceramic tile which comes in frostproof and weatherproof varieties. This is also true for benches, tables, facings of the barbecue, etc. If the finishing surface used is ceramic tile, dry-set mortar is recommended for setting the time. It was developed especially for installing tile directly to concrete and brick masonry.

CLEAN FIRE SCREEN

To keep your fire screen clean, supplement dusting by scrubbing periodically with hot water and soap suds.

Preserving Porches Worth Amount of Work Involved

A porch is a wonderful feature of a house that most architects no longer include in their plans. And with many of the porches on older homes being turned into extra, closed-in rooms the porch as a place for just sitting outdoors is fast becoming extinct.

Preserving the porch — front or back variety — is worth the small amount of work involved. It needn't be approached in the spirit of antique preserving. Whatever makes sense in the preservation of your home's exterior, makes equally good sense where the porch is concerned.

Some Paint
Sidewalls and rails will take the same kind of house and trim paint you use elsewhere on your property. For the floor use regular porch and deck enamel, a paint made to withstand wear as well as weather.

Calking all of the many joints is especially important because of the all-around exposure to weather. Calk before painting and posts and rails are less likely to rot away.

Brick steps can become unsafe as mortar weathers away. A periodic cleaning out of old, crumbling mortar and replacing with fresh will keep steps sturdy.

Wood steps that sit in a pool of water will quickly rot. Base of wooden steps should be treated with wood preservative.

Neatly drilled holes in treads will keep water from accumulating and will provide ventilation for proper drying.

Collapsed Pier
Often the decision to tear down a porch comes about because a brick pier that supports a corner has become weakened and collapsed, taking half the porch with it.

A periodic inspection can prevent this. If pier seems to be crumbling immediate replacement is necessary. This should be done before the porch begins to sag. You will have to borrow or rent a screw-type building jack before you can do the job. Clear an area under the edge of the porch to provide a space for heavy timber to be used as a base for the jack. The jack is turned enough so that it is tight up against the sill or underside of the porch. To provide a broad stable surface you may want to place a board immediately under the porch and on top of the jack.

At this point another half-turn you can do the job. Clear an area under the edge of the porch to provide a space for heavy timber to be used as a base for the jack. The jack is turned enough so that it is tight up against the sill or underside of the porch. To provide a broad stable surface you may want to place a board immediately under the porch and on top of the jack.

Prop Up
Before you start to tear down the pier provide other supports for the porch beside the jack. Props of 2x4's or heavier lumber should be wedged under so that they are tight and will support the porch should the jack slip.

Once you're sure the porch is properly supported you can tear away the pier. If the old cement footing is broken, dig it out and put in a new one. Once the footing has set lay new bricks. If the pier is made hollow you can fill the center with cement. When you reach the top you are likely to find that there's space left but not enough for another row of bricks.

Fill the space with cement. Smooth the sides so that they are flush with the bricks. Wet thoroughly so that mortar doesn't dry out too quickly and crumble. The mortar and cement should set at least 24 hours or even longer before the jack and other supports are removed.

No Clamor For Federal Aid

The National Educational Association of the United States, which spends its members' funds in an all-out campaign for federal aid to education, is in a frenzy of activity.

Congress is getting ready to make its decision on this controversial proposal. The National Educational Association is trying to make it appear that a majority of Americans are in favor of federal aid. Two magazine polls, one taken more than 10 years ago and another one taken in 1957, are referred to in this regard. One showed heavy support for federal aid to education, the other for federal aid to build new schools.

Plainly, things have changed since the polls were taken. Critics of federal aid have made progress in developing their case. They have demolished the idea that federal aid would be of equal help to everybody.

It would amount to taking money from everybody for redistribution according to a federal formula. States already paying for adequate school systems would be required to make up deficits of quality and quantity in states that never paid for adequate systems, in some cases because they were supporting two systems, one for white pupils, one for Negro pupils.

The federal aid concept, in fact, would be a 50-state enlargement of the Ohio School Foundation Act, which divvies up revenue from parts of the state paying high tax returns with parts of the state paying low returns. Ohio has been willing to do this for its own educational program, but there is no evidence that Ohioans want to do it for Hawaiians, Georgians, Alaskans, Alabamans and Nevadans.

Fortunately, senators and representatives do not rely on out-of-date polls in magazines for information about public opinion. They use the ear-to-the-ground system perfected by generations of politicians. They are not hearing anything in Ohio that would lead them to believe federal aid to education is anything but what it always has been — a gimmick to put national control of educational policies into the hands of a bureaucracy of school administrators in Washington, D.C.

Block the Phony Comparisons

A protest issued by three Republican leaders of the Ohio House of Representatives — Roger Cloud, speaker; Robert Taft, Jr., speaker pro tempore, and Ralph Fisher, chairman of the Finance Committee, is designed to shatter Democratic composure.

Having called attention to the subject of this protest more than a week ago, this newspaper commends the three Republican leaders for their vigorous show of concern.

There is a trick in budget presentation—a trick attempted in this instance by the DiSalle administration, though certainly not invented or copyrighted by the DiSalle administration.

The trick makes it appear that the political opposition is cutting the heart out of an essential public service like the Welfare Department because it votes for fewer dollars than were requested. Democrats pulled it when they screamed that heartless Republicans were cutting the heart out of state appropriations for the aged, the weak, the helpless, the insane etc.

But in fact all the Republicans did was take a hard look at what Democrats had asked for and compare it with what they needed, based on what actually had been spent in the past. In almost every instance, the result was to give the Democrats more than they had before, though less than they had asked for.

Yet, their outcry was intended to make Ohioans believe the DiSalle administration was being forced into an austerity welfare program. It was a shabby business, and it deserved to be exposed.

It's a shabby business wherever it's tried, in Columbus or Washington. The only comparisons that mean anything are between what was spent and what is going to be spent, not between what is asked for and what is going to be granted.

They Loved Him In Peoria

Vice President Johnson had a triumphal tour, by all accounts. He and Mrs. Johnson and President Kennedy's sister, Mrs. Stephen E. Smith, made friends for the United States throughout southeastern Asia and all the way points they visited going and coming.

This was the sort of thing Richard Nixon did surpassingly well when he was vice president and he and Mrs. Nixon were making good will tours in behalf of the United States. The main idea is to create between a high official of the U.S. government and high officials of the countries visited an air of good acquaintanceship in the broad view of the populace.

The Russians do the same thing. And no one ever has worked harder at it than the British, whose stock in trade has been to show the crown whenever things needed sprucing up, in somewhat the way our own Teddy Roosevelt discovered the impact on irrefragable people of showing the fleet. He even had the ships painted white so they could be seen better.

Vice President Johnson is as much or more of a pro at this sort of thing than Mr. Nixon who never in a thousand years could match the Texas manner of his towering and extroverted successor. And there is every good reason to believe Mrs. Johnson captivates hearts as readily as Mrs. Nixon ever did. But something has happened to American faith in official tourism as an instrument of national policy.

Every babe in America once grew up believing that if the other people of the world knew Americans better they would love Americans more. "To know us is to love us." This used to be an article of faith.

But faith has languished. To know us is not to love us. It's hard to accept but that's the way it is. They may love Mr. Johnson. They may love Mr. Nixon. They may love Americans in the concrete every chance they get. But in the abstract they don't love us. It's a blow, because we're lovable when you get to know us. We really are. Not all of us, of course, but these of us who are lovable.

A Solemn Occasion

Tomorrow is Memorial Day when the majority of Americans will pause to honor the memory of the dead.

It is a solemn occasion, yet there will be those who will think of it only as a holiday away from work, a time for celebration.

Don't be so caloused or so unpatriotic as to miss the real meaning of the day. A reawakening of patriotism is needed among us all. The fallen have not died in vain. Display the Stars and Stripes at your home and be grateful to the allied veterans organizations which perpetuate Salem's Memorial Day observance each year. Without their noble efforts, the true meaning of the day would be soon lost.

Once Over

Photo finish and late scratch have now entered operations of the U.S. Supreme Court. Two judges didn't get to post, and important decision in duPont-G.M. case was carried by ONE vote. (It was so close a nylon stocking could have separated justices.)

DuPont put money into G.M. when motor company was not doing too well 40 years ago. Decision it was wrong sets new record for slow motion, hidden ball trick and kick in the pants.

DuPont was taking chance and could have lost plenty. But investment worked out well, which can mean severe punishment these days. Company has been in courts so often and so long over this one case that it has needed four-story infirmary to treat its officials for chronic harassment.

G.M. shares totaling 63 million must be sold by duPont. Shareholders in all walks of American life are so dizzy they don't know whether to consult brokers, astrologists, tea-leaf readers or survival-kit makers for advice.

Question recommended for investors is not, "How did the market do today?" but "What did the Court do?" Anybody discussing stock with a broker had better include these queries:

1. Has the company always met its dividend and has it ever met Attorney General?
2. Is this a "growth stock" or just a matter of "growth litigation"?
3. Is the security good for a quick turnover, a long pull, a delayed pass or a 4-3 decision?

By H. I. Phillips

4. Is it a stock in a minor corporation not very well run or a Blue Chip stock in corporation always in danger because it is highly successful, splendidly run and a great help to American economy?

5. I know the company did well in business, but how did it perform in the courts?

6. Is this a good stock for a widow, or only if she marries into a top law firm?

Justice Frankfurter, dissenting duPont case, said court was entering Alice in Wonderland area. Maybe he meant Malice in Bumperland.

GOVERNOR OF ALABAMA is suffering from "Bobby" socks.

Two retired army generals are teaching dentistry at Ohio State. ("The Yanks are coming.")

J. S. Seidman, an "angel" in Broadway show productions, tells Congress that crack-down on expense accounts for tax deductions would be good, not bad, for theater. Public is being kept out of theaters by high-priced seats gobbled by "tax deducting big spenders," he says. Right or wrong, it is fact that countless folks who would flock to shows if they could afford it are now "long lost customers."

A dozen women are in training as American astronauts. Enter the "lagmournaut" and "moondoll."

Nothing is hurting U.S. in world prestige as much as scene in Alabama. Regardless of issues, Soviet is working overtime distributing the pictures.

What's It All About, Pop?

'Go-Home Fever'

By DUANE E. CROFT
Salem News Staff Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio — When the Ohio General Assembly returns Wednesday from its long Memorial Day holiday, the biennial "go-home fever" of springtime probably will have reached epidemic proportions.

For weeks there has been talk of possible dates for adjournment. Most members favored a working windup around mid-June, while more skeptical observers of the legislative process claimed that was just wishful thinking.

House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, however, now says it may not be far beyond that—say the third week in June. That would put the formal adjournment date in the second week of July.

Pace May Quicken

Naturally, any deadline for finishing up work depends somewhat on the amount of work to be finished up. It is legislative legend that the load can be diminished at an astonishingly rapid pace in ratio to the desired time left in which to do it.

So the big question on this Memorial Day weekend is what HAS to be done. Anything else is not worth worrying about as the "go-home fever" nears its critical stage.

What HAS to be done falls generally into two categories: "Absolute musts" and "desirable musts."

It is conceivable that even some of the bills in the latter pigeonhole can be dropped by the wayside if time runs out.

Appropriations a 'Must'

In the first category, of course, are the appropriations bills which provide the money for the state's operations during the next two fiscal years.

The major money bill—the operating budget—has passed the House, where it got its most careful inspection by the House Finance Committee, and now is undergoing further study by the Senate Finance Committee. It should be ready for floor action in the upper chamber very shortly.

The capital improvements bill was sent to the House by the administration last week. Some argument is expected on it, but GOP leaders by this time have a pretty clear idea of just what they'll be able to allow for major building projects.

Discuss Sundry Claims

Third major money bill is the sundry claims measure, which includes amounts paid on liability to citizens who are prohibited from suing the state.

Also listed by Cloud as "absolute musts" are the school foundation program, under which subsidies are allocated for public schools, and an upgrading of rates employers pay for unemployment compensation—deemed necessary to keep the jobless pay fund solvent.

Those five matters must be taken care of to keep the state going for the next two years, Cloud says. Beyond them, the speaker lists about a dozen subjects which he puts into the "desirable musts" category.

College vs. Branch

One is education beyond the high school, which has had its ups and downs as legislators debated the relative merits of community junior colleges, university branches and technical institutes.

The Senate has revived a once-dead community college proposal which is likely to get some revamping in the House.

Money has been allocated in the general appropriations bill and legislation passed the House Thursday for a state program to retrain workers who have been replaced by industrial automation. The Republican leadership of the Assembly gives this high priority status to pave the way toward curing Ohio's chronic unemployment.

The GOP chieftains have worked with Democrats in seeking bipartisan agreements on several pet subjects of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

Conspiracy Considered

These include criminal conspiracy, conflict of interest, lobbying bills. Whether all of them will complete the route to the law books in the time remaining is uncertain at this point.

Abolition of sales tax stamps could be put in that list, too. Cloud in past years has been a sponsor of such proposals, and DiSalle's administration has added momentum to the move.

The House passed an abolition bill last week and the issue now is in the Senate's lap.

Cloud hopes the Assembly will take action this time to give local governments some voice in the issuance of liquor permits in their areas. There has been a good deal of wrangling over how to accomplish that without risking a return to the pre-prohibition evils of too much local control.

Senate to Act on Numbers

Three stiff bills aimed at cracking down on numbers and sports betting rackets in Ohio were put through the House as a package but have been going through the Senate mill at a leisurely pace. Cloud expects they will beat the adjournment date.

A proposal to revamp the state's approach to charging relatives for care of mental patients was passed by the House in March after much hard committee work but still is in the Senate Finance Committee. The speaker says he has been assured it will move on in due time.

A bill to allow the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to tighten up enforcement of the state's 80-year-old ban on racial discrimination in public places went through the House like a spring breeze, has hit a snag in a Senate committee but is likely to go on the statute books.

Highway Safety Up

Cloud says he is also particularly interested in a group of highway safety measures, including establishment of a research center at Ohio State University, requiring seat belt brackets on new cars, providing police protection for motorists on private property such as shopping centers and stricter school bus inspection.

That leaves, among Cloud's dozen "desirable musts," the bill to carve out the 24th congressional district to which Ohio will be entitled starting in 1963.

Political opinions on the fate of that effort are as numerous and varied as the 8 counties who send representatives to Columbus. The only safe prediction is "wait and see."

Many Bills May Die

Naturally, the subjects listed here do not include many other measures of routine and noncontroversial nature that already have been or are likely to be passed. Neither do they include hundreds of bills that never had a real chance.

Only about 25 per cent of the measures introduced ever make the grade in a normal session.

Any bills that haven't made a big stride forward by this time probably will wind up in the other 75 per cent by the time the "go-home fever" epidemic is cured.

Kennedy Message

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Speech Covered Too Many Subjects

There was an impression of confusion and disorder in the way President Kennedy's address to Congress was prepared for delivery and in the actual delivery.

The joint session of the Senate and House didn't hear verbatim the speech which was distributed by the White House to the press a bout three hours earlier. Whole sections — approximately 1,500 words — were deleted or changed as the President spoke. The reason given is that this was necessary so as not to use up too much television time. Mr. Kennedy spoke for 44 minutes.

After it was over, the announcement was made by the White House that the Congressional Record would publish the full text of the speech, including not only the brief passages which the President added extemporaneously but also the sections which were eliminated as he spoke.

What then becomes the official text of the President's speech? What was transmitted to the Congress of the United States as the official recommendation of the chief executive?

Does the "interpolated" version constitute an official expression?

Often in the past a president has made slight changes as he spoke or has added a sentence or two here and there, but the Congressional Record would usually print the stenographic report of what was actually said.

Perhaps it was a good thing Mr. Kennedy did some editing. For in the prepared copy given to the press there occurs this puzzling statement:

"Too often we have accepted a merely defensive role. Too often we have let ourselves appear as friends of the status quo — and the status quo may be $50 a year. Meanwhile the pressures of the totalitarian conspiracy mount higher every day, as one nation after another, by internal more often than external means, finds its freedom under attack."

What does the "$50 a year" have to do with it?

AS DELIVERED, the address was more than 6,000 words in length. Anything that runs 44 minutes tends to tire the audience and it was apparent that many members of Congress received the speech in a rather indifferent mood — judging by the relatively few manifestations of applause in comparison with the numerous outbursts when Mr. Kennedy appeared last time before a joint session.

Cloud says he is also particularly interested in a group of highway safety measures, including establishment of a research center at Ohio State University, requiring seat belt brackets on new cars, providing police protection for motorists on private property such as shopping centers and stricter school bus inspection.

That leaves, among Cloud's dozen "desirable musts," the bill to carve out the 24th congressional district to which Ohio will be entitled starting in 1963.

It was most unfortunate that the President decided to cover so much ground in a single message. It would have been far more effective if he had devoted a separate message or communication on different days to each of the important topics that he discussed. Thus, the problem of outer space and the importance of research, including the prospective trip to the moon by some American astronaut, would have made more of an impression on Congress if it had been the subject of a single message.

As it was, Mr. Kennedy tried to cover too much ground and perhaps the reason was that he is going to Europe soon and sought to get off his mind and into the minds of members of Congress the point of view of the administration on many things.

Or perhaps it was the desire for publicity through television that caused the President's advisers to persuade him to deliver an omnibus message.

The orderly conduct of the government's business and the need for a thorough presentation of current issues to the Congress should, it would seem, outweigh the passion for television exposure.

THERE REALLY IS little new in the President's address. He asks for more federal appropriations. He hopes that the budget will not be too far out of balance.

He is pleased that economic recovery is on the way. He is right also in asking for the small amount of money needed for the U.S. Information Agency broadcasts to other countries.

As for the major recommendations about military reorganization and defense programs, these were presented by Mr. Kennedy in very general terms.

The program he recommends for manpower development and training, to give several hundred thousands of workers new occupational skills, is a step in the right direction.

With respect to the coming meetings with Premier Khrushchev, Mr. Kennedy insisted in his message that "no formal agenda is planned and no negotiations will be undertaken" but that there is to be a "personal exchange of views." He added:

"Yet it is important to know that our patience at the bargaining table is nearly inexhaustible, though our credulity is limited — that our hopes for peace are unflagging, while our determination to protect our security is resolute."

These are generalities — more words added to the thousands that in the hope of impressing Khrushchev.

Minority Of One

By TRUMAN TWILL

Some of my best friends are sailors. Or perhaps I should say they are water-borne. They have joined the boat-owning throng.

We used to gasp with astonishment when we saw pictures of boats apparently sailing through the air on canals in Holland because the water level was higher than the level of the surrounding countryside. This optical illusion now is commonplace in the United States.

Boats form an endless procession on every highway. They go sailing over bridges and up the sides of hills. There is a question whether some of these boats ever actually get into the water, because they appear to put in all their time skimming through the countryside.

I'll never join the boat-owning throng. There are 11 good reasons. The first nine are not important. No. 10, however, is of considerable importance. I wouldn't consider owning a boat that would make me seaisick if the water was rough, and I have no chance of owning one so large this wouldn't happen.

The other reason, never before disclosed, is even more personal.

It happened in the late part of World War II. There was a project afoot to give some ambulant convalescent from a veterans' hospital an outing. It grew into a pretty hairy affair.

A group of armchair generals and shoredside admirals had been formed to give the wounded veterans anything they wanted and what they wanted most was a chance to make uninhibited and unlimited whoopee. The two heroes assigned to my care went into celebrating orbit and stayed that way until the outing ended and they were on their way home to the hospital, the worse for wear.

That will reason No. 11 why I never will join the boat-owning throng.

If I can stick by my resolution, this will make me a minority of one in no time. I will be the only American living who does not own a boat. I may be the only one now.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a drug store. I've been asked to do all sorts of favors for customers and I don't mind but when customers ask me to help them cheat the government, I think this is going too far.

A certain woman comes in often and buys lots of cosmetics, perfumes, sun tan lotion, candy and so on. Then she buys a bottle of vitamins and an occasional prescription and wants me to describe it all as "medicinal supplies." I know she does this so she can take it all off her income tax, since medicinal supplies are deductible.

The Memorial Day ceremonies as known today are generally believed to have had their beginning at Columbus, Miss.

There, in April 1863, a small group of Southern women scattered spring flowers on the graves of the Southern soldiers who had died in the battle of Shiloh, just across the border in Tennessee.

One of them found two Union graves among the Southern dead. The women placed flowers on these graves, too—a simple act, transcending wartime bitterness that lived to become a national tradition.

Mrs. Gary M. Painchaud

Virginia Ellen Johnson Wed to Gary Painchaud

The marriage of Miss Virginia Ellen Johnson and Gary M. Painchaud took place Saturday at 2 p.m. in Holy Trinity English Lutheran Church. Rev. Daniel Keister officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Arthur Johnson of N. Lincoln Ave. and the late Mr. Johnson. Mr. and Mrs. Gary M. Painchaud of Southeast Blvd. are parents of the bridegroom.

Twin vases of gladioli and chrysanthemums enhanced the altar, which was banked with schlegel and grape ivy. Tapers in a pair of seven-branch candelabra lighted the setting. White bows marked the pews.

Edna Zeigler, a cousin of the bride, sang "God Make Them Mine." "Because" and "With This Ring." Miss Ruth Hoch presided at the organ.

The bride was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her uncle, Thomas Howells.

Her gown of Chantilly lace over satin was a floor length sheath, styled with a scalloped sash, neckline, short sleeves and a detachable train fashioned of organza over satin with lace overlays. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and sequins, and she wore a pearl necklace, a gift from the bridegroom. With a white Bible, she carried a corsage of white orchids showered with stephanotis and satin streamers.

Serving as matron of honor was the bride's sister, Barbara McBride. She wore a street length dress of orchid organza over taffeta, styled with a sash, neckline, short sleeves and matching bell overskirt. She wore an orchid headband and carried a basket of yellow daisies.

Another sister of the bride, Arthene Kooztz of Pittsburgh; a cousin, Shirley Howells of Greenford; Janet Reynolds of Alliance, a cousin of the bridegroom; and Arlene Tausch of Sebring were bridesmaids. They wore matching dresses of yellow organza over taffeta and carried baskets of blue daisies.

Jo Ellen Kooztz of Pittsburgh, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress of orchid organza was styled with a scalloped collar and skirt and a headband of matching ruffles. Blue and yellow daisies were in the basket she carried.

Billy Joe Meier of Winona, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

Douglas Painchaud served as his brother's best man.

Bob McBride of North Georgetown and John Kooztz of Pittsburgh, brothers-in-law of the bride, and Bill McCormick and Bob DeCrow, both of Salem, ushered.

The bride's mother wore an embroidered blue silk sheath and the bridegroom's mother wore a blue lace dress with matching jacket. Both complemented their attire with blue and white accessories and corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

Cleveland Splits Twin-Bill With Kansas City 9-1, 4-8

Bell Gains Third Win on Six-Hitter

Athletics Shell Perry In 1st Inning; Both Clubs Total 10 Home Runs

CLEVELAND (AP) — What's wrong with pitcher Jim Perry? That's a big question in Cleveland these days.

Perry, an 18-game winner in 1960, suffered his fourth straight loss Sunday. He's won but two.

The Kansas City Athletics blasted Perry for five straight hits in the first inning, including a three-run homer by Leo Posada. Perry left without retiring a batter and the Athletics went on to an 8-4 second game triumph. The Indians won the opener 9-1 on Gary Bell's six-hitter.

Control Is Off

Will the 24-year-old right-hander be relegated to the bullpen?

"No," said Manager Jimmie Dykes. "He'll start Wednesday night (against Minnesota). His control is off. He's coming in with pitches too high and he just needs work."

Frank Lane, Kansas City general manager who had the same job with the Indians until this season, had this comment on Perry: "Jim's getting too smart for his own good. He's a little too cute. When he starts firing again, he'll be all right."

Perry has a 4.18 earned run average. He hasn't won since April 29 and he has been pounded hard in his last three starts.

While Perry's performance was discouraging, the Indians drew optimism from the job turned in by Bell (3-4), his third straight win. He fired hard and recovered from a shaky start, retiring 14 straight in one stretch.

Ten home runs—five for each side—where hit in the two games. John Romano hit a pair to give him seven, and Woodie Held, Jim Piersall and Vic Power got the others for Cleveland.

Tribe Strikes Early

The Indians scored eight runs off Ray Herbert in the first four innings to make things easy for Bell.

Six runs scored in the third inning after two were out. Piersall made the second of his four hits in the game, Tito Francona doubled, Power walked and Willie Kirkland rapped a two-run single. Romano walked to load the bases and Held drilled a double for two more runs. Bubba Phillips' single brought home two more.

The only run off Bell was Norm Siebern's home run.

The Indians got only six hits off Norm Bass in the nightcap as the rookie right-hander coasted after the A's teed off on Perry and followed with five runs in six innings off Barry Latman.

Half the Cleveland hits were home runs. Romano and Held hit back-to-back homers in the second inning and Piersall clouted a two-run shot in the sixth.

The Indians, trailing Detroit by 3½ games, go back into action in a Memorial Day doubleheader with Minnesota here Tuesday. Wynn Hawkins (4-2) and Jim (Mudcat) Grant (4-0) will pitch for Cleveland.

Dodgers Move Into 2nd

Cards Trip Pirates, 8-4; Sweep Series

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Francisco clung to its 2½-game lead in the National League Sunday by beating the Chicago Cubs for the eighth straight time 6-5 while the Los Angeles Dodgers were easing past Milwaukee.

Despite the Cubs' sorry performance of losing 18 of their last 21 games, they still are not in the cellar. Philadelphia remained in last place by bowing to the Cincinnati Reds for the eighth straight time this year. Vada Pinson's pair of two-run homers and Bob Purkey's pitching did the job for the Reds.

St. Louis knocked out former teammate Harvey Haddix in a six-run first inning and swept the three-game series from Pittsburgh by thumping the Pirates 8-4. Al Cicotte saved the day with 23 innings of scoreless relief pitching.

Los Angeles, trailing the Giants by 2½ games, nosed out Milwaukee 4-3 with the aid of six scoreless innings of pitching by relief man Dick Farrell.

Manager Al Dark went to his bench for the hits that gave the Giants their decision over the Cubs. Orlando Cepeda's 14th

Merchants Post Softball Victory

Hank Miller Hurls 2-0 Win Over GF

Henry Miller hurred a brilliant two-hit shutout as the Salem Merchants of the Penn-Ohio Fastpitch Softball League blanked General Fireproofing, an independent Youngstown powerhouse, by a score of 2-0 Sunday night in Youngstown.

Miller hooked up in a tight pitching duel with Charlie Bushman of Fireproofing. Salem finally broke the scoring ice in the top of the sixth inning when Bob Adams singled with one out, was sacrificed to second by Bill Pauline and rode home on Bill Ferguson's triple.

Sam Pridon brought in an insurance run in the seventh when his single followed a walk and an error.

The only hits Fireproofing was able to garner off Miller were a first-inning double by Ward Maloney and a sixth-inning single by Ed Ripple.

Miller fanned five and walked two. Nine Salem batters went down on strikes off the fireball offerings of Bushman. Bushman walked only one.

The Merchants return to Penn-Ohio League action on Wednesday when they travel to Niles for a double header against Fenton Street Bar. Salem is 0-2 in league play while Niles has a 1-2 mark.

East Tech Runner-Up

Dayton Roosevelt Cops Class AA Track Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The four-sport state high school spring championships are over, and here are the new kings for 1961:

Track — Dayton Roosevelt in Class AA and Cincinnati DePorres in Class A.

Baseball — Cleveland South in Class AA and Baltimore Liberty Union in Class A.

Golf—Kettering Fairmont, team champion, and Bob Littler, Athens, individual champion.

Tennis—Clark Graebner, Lakewood, in singles, and Riley Griffin and Jay Grunebaum, Springfield Shawnee, doubles.

Dayton Roosevelt scored in seven of the nine track events and in one of the field events in winning its first Class AA track crown with 27 points. Cleveland East Tech was second with 24 and Springfield South third with 18.

In Class A, Cincinnati DePorres got 18 points on one first, and three second place finishes. Second was Fairport Harbor with 14 points and Homerville Buckeye and Columbus Academy tied for third with 12.

Sports writers covering Saturday's events picked Mansfield senior's Henry Weaver as the top performer in Class AA for his victories in the 100-yard dash and the 180-yard hurdles. Bruce Draudt of Columbus Academy took similar honors in Class A for his wins in the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Three records fell, including the oldest pair in the book, in the 54th running of the state track meet. The oldest of the pair was in the Class A high jump where a leap of 6 feet, 3¼ inches by John Gehring of Ottawa Hills erased the 1924 mark of 6-3¼ set by Warren Anson of Prospect.

Also cracked was the 25-year record for the mile run. Toledo Libbey's Mike Gallagher did it in 4:24.1, knocking a half-second off the 4:24.6 mark set by Bob Curtis of East Cleveland Shaw in 1936.

The mile relay was won by Cleveland East Tech in a record-breaking 3:21.7. The old standard was 3:23.6. And Marietta's Bob Fogle tied the 14.4 record set 10 years ago in the 120-yard high hurdles.

Over on the diamond, Cleveland South scored six runs in one inning to defeat Lima Senior 7-1 on 11 hits and win the Class AA championship. Liberty Union won its 32nd consecutive game—17th this season — repeating as Class A champion with a 4-2 victory over Windham of Portage County. Jack Johnson's triple with two Liberty Union runners on base in the ninth and second extra inning broke a 2-2 tie.

Kettering Fairmont's four-man golf team compiled a 661 total for 36 holes and beat Akron Buchtel by five strokes for the title. Littler, son of an Athens golf pro, cracked 77-74—151, seven over par, for the individual championship. Oberlin's Bob Bourne was second with 79-75—154.

Lakewood's Graebner became the second tennis player in Ohio schoolboy history to win the singles crown three straight years. He beat Roger Beach of Dayton Belmont 6-4, 6-4, in the finals. Springfield Shawnee's Griffin and Grunebaum defeated Bob Barker and Dave Thomas of Dayton Oakwood, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2, for the doubles title.

Quakers Fail To Score At Columbus

Janovec Breaks Own Salem Shot Put Mark at State Meet

Salem's four entries in the State Class AA track and field meet at Columbus last weekend failed to break into the scoring column but one of them, Ron Janovec, shattered his own school record in the shot put.

Janovec, who was co-captain of the Quakers this season, got the iron ball out 53-5½, two feet farther than the standard he set earlier in the season. The mark has been approved and will go down in the Salem High record book.

With his throw of 53-5½, Janovec missed by just one-half inch of reaching the finals. The sixth man to qualify made the finals with a toss of 53-6. As it was, Janovec wound up as the seventh Class AA shot putter in the state.

Due to a slight mixup Janovec's turn to throw came about two hours later than expected. In warming up he got off a toss of better than 54 feet. Then came the long wait before his official throw.

JOE HOUSTEAU of Youngstown Ursuline won the shot with his haul of 57-8¾. Housteau set the District shot record at Salem's Reilly Stadium earlier this month at 57-6¾.

The man who took fifth place in the shot at Columbus, Bob Funk of Lakewood, was credited with a toss of 53-7. This means that Janovec missed by just 1½ inches of placing in the state meet.

Incidentally, the state record in the shot put is held by Paul LaSpina, brother of Sebastian LaSpina, Salem High assistant track and football coach. Paul's record toss of 59-9¾ was set in 1958 while he was performing for Wickliffe High.

The national record is a whopping 69-3 set by Olympic star Dallas Long in 1958.

RICK SULEA of the Quakers went 12-0 in the pole vault at Columbus Saturday and tied with four others for eighth place.

Jack Waddell of Marion Hard-

Pratt of Lowellville who got a third in the 100 and a fifth in the 220 and Dick Bretz of Springfield Local who came through with a fourth in the 440.

Meissner Hurls Win

Salem Nine Nips Columbiana, 5-3

Salem staved off a ninth-inning rally, mainly on the strength of Moe Meissner's clutch pitching, to down Columbiana, 5-3, yesterday in a County-City Baseball League battle at Columbiana.

The win was the third in five outings for Salem while the Columbiana nine suffered its third loss in four games.

COLUMBIANA ALMOST pulled the fray out of the fire as it loaded the bases with none out in the final frame. However, some tight pitching by Meissner enabled the Salem team to cop the tilt.

Columbiana mustered one run in the ninth inning on an error. Then with no one out and the bases still loaded Meissner settled down. He got one out via the pop fly route, picked a runner off first and had the final batter pop out to Tony Everett, the Salem shortstop.

SALEM SCORED in the top of the fourth when Don Wukotich walked, advanced to second on a fielder's choice, moved to third or a single by Wayne Walters and tallied on a sacrifice fly by Clarence Lease. Salem added its other runs in the fifth, seventh and ninth innings.

Walters was the big man in the Salem attack as he had a perfect day, three-for-three, and drove in two runs.

Meissner was the winning pitcher, going the full nine innings, while Bill Stratton suffered the defeat.

In other County-City League games Sunday, East Palestine upset previously unbeaten East

LITTLE LIZ

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

Factors Contributing to Abdominal Distress

Each of us gets a bellyache at one time or another. With some, it's only an occasional complaint. Others of us are chronic belly-achers. Few of us get by the summer without an attack of the mulligrubs. Perhaps this and succeeding columns may help to guide you when your turn comes.

Most often the cause for belly-ache is easily discovered. A dietary indiscretion. An attack of the trots. Failure to get proper evacuation of the bowels. Menstrual cramps. The effects of a powerful cathartic. Or the aftermath of an intense emotional experience.

But sometimes the complaint defies explanation. We may draw a complete blank after extensive tests, X-ray examinations and even an exploratory operation.

I think you'll be less critical of these failures if I try to explain to you in this and the next few columns the number of structures contained within the abdominal compartment and the number of things that can go wrong with each of them.

ACTUALLY THE CAPACITY of EQUESTRIENNE — Decked out in chic riding togs, Susan Fowler poses prettily with a saddle. She can ride, too. The blonde lass was competing in the Royal Horse Show at Windsor, England.

Thar's gold in the hills and traffic in the streets. Air view of Johannesburg outskirts (top photo) shows vast piles of waste from the gold mines which give the tag, "Golden City," to this largest of South Africa's metropolitan centers. In 1960 gold output totaled $750,400,000. Johannesburg, in background, has a population exceeding one million.

The city's downtown section with brisk traffic and modern buildings is shown at right.

Particulars On Cost Reduction In Supply

Control is the key word in reducing costs. In supply, we are approaching a point of almost absolute control in supply costs.

We started a few years ago by constructing: a warehouse, purchasing offices, a delivery dock for receiving supplies and a parking lot for salesmen—all of these facilities are in an ideal location with easy access and easy flow. We then proceeded to employ very competent people to handle this function and we went to work. The results have been most amazing.

The biggest improvement was the system we installed whereby we have accurate and tight control on inventory at all times; a smooth method for distributing supplies to departments; and intelligent buying. Through all this we have surprisingly little "red tape" or "alibi paper" as we call it. We use a stock catalogue, inventory cards, purchase orders and traveling requisitions; that is the extent of the paperwork.

Also of great importance is the accounting change we made a year ago. We now charge everything to inventory and expense it to departments as they use it. Formerly, we expensed supplies to departments when they were delivered to the warehouse. This practice allowed very little control over supply usage.

Incidentally, about 90 percent of the hospitals use the old inventory system. They also, and I think that this is unfortunate, treat the purchasing function as a stepchild. Some have inadequate facilities and untrained personnel and the waste is rampant. For example, one large hospital in northeast Ohio used 25,000 ballpoint pens last year.

Here are some details we have approached:

Surgical sutures—we standardized on one brand and eliminated several duplications. We carry a 30 day supply and the vendor carries a 30 day supply for us. Result: hundreds of dollars in inventory is saved and an adequate supply is assured.

Light bulbs—listing of 1,638 bulbs used in the hospital was made by location and type. We standardized on sizes and quality and awarded a purchase contract. Result: a savings of many dollars.

Dressings and bandages—this study was originated to insure that patients receive the benefit of the most efficient, safe and comfortable type of dressings available today. As a result changes were made which places our hospital as a leader with regard to sterile technique, elimination of waste, minimum labor handling and lowest cost to the patient.

Hypodermic syringes and needles—this hospital was one of the first in the country to adopt the disposable hypodermic syringe and needle. These provide a better, safer product to the patient and in our case eliminated 3,000 hours of labor a year in one department in cleaning syringes and sharpening needles. We also discontinued 20 different needle sizes at another vast savings.

Disposables—there are many new disposable products coming on the market: surgical blades, enema sets, surgical gloves, IV sets, drainage pads, blood exchange sets, all kinds of containers, and many other items. When these products prove to be better and safer we use them because they eliminate labor in clean up time. We plan to save several hundred dollars this year on disposables.

Inventory standardization — our overall standardization program of five years resulted in a reduction of items carried in inventory from 1,800 down to 1,200. The value of this program is in the release of storage space and money not being tied up in inventory as well as the advantage of greater simplicity.

Emergency stock—this was one of the first projects. We established adequate emergency stock levels in all important items. We can provide a continuous flow of supplies to meet emergencies.

There are many more savings on supply costs but space does not permit us to discuss these. We have, however, held supply costs at the same level for over five years by improvements which offset inflation in prices.

CINCINNATI (AP) — A boating party on the Ohio River, three adults and three youngsters, got a quick rescue after a 15-foot outboard-powered boat swamped Sunday.
